Arizona State University is creating a new model for American higher education, an unprecedented combination of academic excellence, entrepreneurial energy and broad access. This New American University is a single, unified institution comprising four differentiated campuses positively impacting the economic, social, cultural and environmental health of the communities it serves. Its research is inspired by real world application, blurring the boundaries that traditionally separate academic disciplines. ASU champions intellectual and cultural diversity, and welcomes students from all fifty states and more than one hundred nations across the globe.

The principle of learning by practice underlies every major feature of a Bennington College education: the teacher-practitioner model of teaching; the requirement that students direct the course of their own education; the winter Field Work Term, which gives students work experience and connects them to the greater community.

The College's commitment to learning across the disciplines extends to the faculty, who teach what is uppermost in their minds, exploring new pursuits as well as ongoing areas of study and work. Bennington is grounded in the conviction that as a college education develops students' professional capacities, it should also prepare them to be deeply thoughtful and actively engaged citizens of the world.

Franklin & Marshall College was established in 1787 with a gift of 200 British pounds from Benjamin Franklin, and is located in historic Lancaster, PA; a dynamic city with a thriving arts scene and wonderful restaurants, cafés and boutiques. Students interested in expanding their learning opportunities through research receive more than $500,000 in grants every year. They seek to learn by doing, not by listening and watching. More than two-thirds of students conduct research each year with members of the faculty. All students are lifelong members of a College House, four distinct hubs of academic, extracurricular and social engagement in a residential setting. Guided by faculty dons and administrative prefects, students govern their houses, develop leadership skills, and create their own social and intellectual programs. At F&M your opportunities are truly unlimited!

Our guiding vision of Scholarship in Action means that students will engage with the world from the moment they join our community. We set ourselves apart from other large research institutions in that we combine the warm personality of a small college with the greater resources needed to deliver superior academic and professional experiences. Located in beautiful central New York, our students find a home in one of the 9 colleges and take advantage of our enhanced learning opportunities and study abroad. Our students engage in over 300 student organizations, fraternities and sororities, and rally for our Division I teams. We are home to the IBM Green Data Center, Center for Excellence in Environmental and Energy Systems and a new collaboration and working partnership with JP Morgan Chase. We are a private university committed to making education accessible.

WHAT CAN RACC DO FOR YOU AND YOUR STUDENTS?

❖ Signature RACC Events:

- Considering College Out-of-State, Creating Options in Your College Search – A college fair that features a 30 minute presentation, brief presentations from participating colleges and a mini-fair.

“The RACC going out of state college fair was easy to set up and it had big impact with the nearly 300 attendees. It really bolstered the students and parents’ confidence by making the college search process more personable. They met and interacted with college reps who said, yeah, you can go to college and you have all kinds of options.” Maureen Roadman, Solutions

- Mini-Fairs: Day - Day time college fair visits during lunch and or free periods.

“The RACC mini fairs also require minimal set up but provide maximum benefit. The advantage that the RACC mini fairs have provided to my students over the larger NACAC Fairs, is that they are able to have more meaningful conversations with the representatives without feeling hurried and there are even some colleges present at the RACC mini fair that do not participate in the larger fairs.” Chris White, High Tech High

“The RACC mini-fair is one of the events I look most forward to in the fall. It was a great way for our students to learn about over 20 out of state schools all at one time. Seeing so many colleges at once really got my students motivated to explore options they had never even considered before.” Myra Castro, Mater Dei High School

- RACC Case Studies Night – We will conduct a Case Studies night at your facilities

“The parents at my school loved the RACC Case Studies program. It helped clear up so many misconceptions about admissions, and working with the RACC representatives was easy and efficient. RACC representatives (also) work with my students each year on college interview techniques. Every year my students say it was one of the most valuable things they learned during the college process.” Nancy Caine, St. Augustine High School
